EXPERIENCE

Internship - fee-for-task agreement
August 2022 – October 2022
Deloitte Advisory sp. z o. o., sp. k., Wrocław

The internship supervised by Deloitte taught me the basics of teamwork in an IT project. This meant cooperation with peers as well as with seniors who were always willing to offer their time and help. While working on the project, our main task was to get acquainted with the working environment in an IT company and find a suitable application development path. Thanks to this, in addition to working on FrontEnd (Angular), I had the opportunity to work on Backend (Spring Framework), database (Postgres SQL), application hosting (AWS), and application testing (Cypress, JUnit). Unfortunately, the short period of cooperation did not allow me to fully master these technologies but left me with the desire to expand my knowledge and skills.

Warehouseman in the marketing department – fee-for-task agreement
June 2019 – August 2019
JZO S. A., Jelenia Góra

The work required high adaptability to the new requirements of the employer. Initially, my job was to count the promotional products in the back office. Over time this task turned into moving these products to the appropriate rooms in the warehouse, which were owned by the marketing department. Due to the relocation, these materials had to be easily accessible to other people working in the warehouse. At the end of the contract, my job was to clean trial lenses, which were then used by the presenters and sold to opticians as references. My responsibilities could be summarized to:
- Maintaining order in the storage rooms belonging to the marketing department
- Counting and allocating materials to make them more easily accessible to other employees
- Organizing a practical system for dividing the company's marketing materials
- Generating Excel workbooks showing the stock status (product name, quantity, product photo, and in which room it is located)
- Cleaning and moving delicate lenses

Grocery store employee– fee-for-task agreement
June 2018 – September 2018
Delikatesy Centrum, Piechowice

Working in a grocery store taught me how to make friends with co-workers and how to maintain an optimistic, friendly atmosphere at work without making anyone uncomfortable. It also taught me to maintain positive contact with the store's customers and to be ready to help while maintaining a culture of respect for the person asking for help.
